

FIRES

D
The night they slept together, all they did was sleep
Em
She climbed in from the fire escape, didn't make a peep
D
Passed out right beside him, God's own inside joke
Em
Neither knew the other was there, she left before he woke chorus:

G D G D
She was a dream he never knew he had, a ghost he couldn't see
G D
She went out the way she came, didn't have a name
Em G D
Fire slips through your hands, fire dances free

D
His mind knew nothing of her but somewhere deep inside
Em
A candle glowed like honey, almost made him cry
D
That's what kept him warm on that chilly afternoon
Em
He went out on the fire escape and waited for the moon

D
She had the worst hangover she had ever had
Em
And a flicker of a memory of some guy's bachelor pad
D
And his steady breathing that made her breathe along
Em
That was how she fell asleep, breathing to his song

[chorus with reversed pronouns]

[bridge]

Em D
Everyone's just looking for connection, all of us born with that desire

Differences are differences, nothing more, we all came from the same fire

His moon showed up half empty, he felt incomplete
Em
The embers inside of him began to lose their heat

She stood upon a corner, invisible and broke

Closed her eyes, took a breath and thought that she smelled smoke
